As part of a major expansion in the area of audiology and hearing sciences, the Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) at the University of Florida is seeking applications for up to three tenure-track faculty positions at any rank. Applicants for these positions may have their PhD or AuD in audiology, hearing sciences, or a closely related field, but preference will be given to candidates with AuD/PhDs. Successful applicants will have clearly defined expertise in a relevant research area and a record of publications in peer-reviewed journals. Successful applicants at the Associate or Full Professor level will have a strong track record of external grant funding. Duties include research in the area of expertise, pursuit of external funding, teaching and mentoring of students, and service to the department. One of these positions will carry an additional administrative assignment as director of the department’s audiology program. These are full-time (1.00 FTE), tenure-track, 12-month positions, that are expected to start in fall 2019.

This is an exciting time to come join our team at one of the nation’s top university teaching hospitals and health care facilities located in beautiful North Central Florida. SLHS is housed within the College of Public Health and Health Professions and is well integrated within the Health Science Center, providing a wealth of opportunities for scholarly collaborations. The audiology program is accredited by the CAA through 2024. The UF Health Science Center is one of the largest in the nation, with six separate colleges.

The University of Florida is a comprehensive doctoral research-extensive university that includes a full range of academic departments and programs (www.ufl.edu). It has a long history of established programs in international education, research and service and is one of only 17 public, land-grant universities that belong to the Association of American Universities. UF is the state’s oldest and most comprehensive university and is among the nation’s most academically diverse public higher education institutions. It regularly has more than $700 million in research dollars.

The city of Gainesville is affordable and family friendly, offering a variety of opportunities for entertainment and outdoor activities.

To view this job posting online and submit an application packet, which includes a CV, letter of interest, and list of references, go to http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/listing/ and search by Job# 508374. Your cover letter should include details regarding your competitiveness to be considered for the Director of Audiology appointment. Application deadline date is November 12, 2018. Candidates interested in a clinical faculty non-tenure track position should apply to Job# 508347.
The University of Florida is an equal opportunity institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the US. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida’s Sunshine Law.